

Southern Rockies Wildland Fire Module 2009 Detailer Outreach

The Nature Conservancy's Southern Rockies Wildland Fire Module is seeking individuals interested in expanding their experience in wildland and prescribed fire operations.

**Expectations*****

We are seeking high-quality individuals, with diverse backgrounds and experiences to participate in ecosystem restoration through fire and fuels management. Individuals will be expected to maintain a positive attitude, have good communications skills and demonstrate a commitment to excellence, while upholding the modules core values of Duty, Respect and Integrity.

**About the Position*****

The positions will be on The Nature Conservancy's Southern Rockies Wildland Fire Module. Detailers will work along side core members of the module and may fill a variety of positions. The goal of the detailer program is to assist The Nature Conservancy, State and Federal land management agency individuals in gaining experience in the implementation of wildland fire, prescribed fire, and/or community protection. Most work will be performed away from the duty location of Loveland, CO. Interested detailers must be willing and available to work/travel for 14-21 days while being located in remote areas that do not provide modern luxuries. All detailers will be expected to be in excellent physical condition to insure the safety and welfare of themselves and others. Detailers can expect long hours and rustic living conditions while working with the module. There is no special fire qualification needed except for being qualified as a basic wildland fire fighter. Individuals will be supplied with fire equipment and uniform components needed for module operations. Boots, nomex and personal items will not be provided.
