1. GENERAL ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

1.1. STATEMENT OF PURPOSE

It is the intention of The Nature Conservancy (“Customer”) to solicit Proposals for a qualified and experienced Social Science Consulting Vendor licensed to do business in the State of Connecticut. Those receiving this Request for Proposals (RFP) are referred to as “Vendor”.

THIS IS NOT AN ORDER.

THE NATURE CONSERVANCY (TNC) is a District of Columbia, USA, non-profit corporation with its principal place of business in Arlington, Virginia, USA. TNC has offices across the U.S. and in over 30 countries around the world.

Since 1951, The Nature Conservancy has been working with communities, businesses, and people to protect more than 119 million acres of land and 5,000 miles of rivers worldwide. We also operate more than 100 marine conservation projects globally. Our mission is to preserve the plants, animals, and natural communities that represent the diversity of life on Earth by protecting the lands and waters they need to survive. Please see www.nature.org for more details on what The Nature Conservancy does and where we work.

This contract shall result in the planning and execution of social science services to complete a comprehensive Recreational Study of Rocky Neck State Park in East Lyme, Connecticut. The Recreational Study will provide the project team and Connecticut Department of Energy and Environmental Protection (CT DEEP) staff with important information about park use patterns, natural resources, and economic impact. The findings of the Recreational Study will be integrated into the development of restoration and park improvement alternatives. This project is funded through a NOAA Transformational Habitat and Coastal Resilience grant.

1.2 BACKGROUND

Rocky Neck State Park (RNSP) in East Lyme, CT is home to exemplary recreational features and ecological systems. It is one of the most visited parks in the state and in 2022, welcomed over 600,000 visitors. Running the length of the park is Bride Brook, a tidally influenced watercourse that supports the largest run of anadromous alewife in the State of Connecticut, supports 82 acres of saltmarsh, and flows into Long Island Sound, Connecticut’s largest and most important natural resource. Currently, there are several modifications within the lower reaches of this tidal creek: two road crossings, two pedestrian boardwalks, a rail bridge, and a box culvert with armored channel. These modifications have had significant consequences, causing disruption to the system’s natural state by altering the hydrologic regime, restricting tidal flow and fish passage, accumulating sediment, and ultimately leading to extensive marsh platform degradation and marsh plant and animal community loss. Shallow, open water is now present in many areas that were formerly marsh. Additionally, there are outdated and limited access to public amenities like the marsh and beach, with accessibility and safety concerns.

Considering the critical role RNSP plays in the ecological and social landscape, the goals of the project are to: 1) Re-establish unimpeded tidal connectivity between Bride Brook and Long Island Sound, 2) Implement large-scale, climate-resilient, saltmarsh restoration, and 3) Improve public access to and from the beach, facilities and saltmarsh, and enhance park visitor outdoor learning and recreational opportunities.

Along with enhanced ecological resilience, this project is focused on creating a climate-resilient state park. Open green spaces act as natural shields, buffering the effects of climate change by managing flood waters, storing carbon, and reducing ambient air temperatures. Currently, four coastal Connecticut State Parks with beaches designated for swimming, including RNSP, are accessible to residents free of entry charges or parking fees. Restoration of RNSP shall benefit visitors from many regional communities by offering increased public recreational opportunities, improved access to coastal natural resources, exposure to vibrant and healthy ecosystems, and enhanced environmental education opportunities. To better understand use patterns at RNSP, a Recreational Study (including surveys and interviews and/or focus groups) will be conducted to assess visitor demographics, frequency of visits, recreational expenditures, activities in which users engage, and barriers to access. This effort will include a natural resource assessment, comprehensive visitor research, and an economic impact analysis.

Restoration of RNSP closely aligns with regional and local planning initiatives focused on habitat conservation and restoration, aquatic connectivity, wetland ecosystem services, hazard mitigation, climate resiliency, local community engagement, and equitable access to outdoor recreation areas. This project is a high priority for the CT DEEP and demonstrates transformative potential for RNSP, Connecticut, and Long Island Sound by addressing critical ecological and social needs and challenges. The project results shall have lasting impacts beyond the project site as it shall provide a roadmap and lessons learned for similar sites across Connecticut and New England, particularly those facing concerns with tidal restrictions, and/or aspire for more resilient and equitable access to a public resource. The recreational value of Connecticut's remaining publicly accessible coastal habitats is directly related to their ecological integrity. Restoring and sustaining public natural spaces like RNSP is essential to enable people to access and benefit from coastal resources.

The services requested in this RFP will intersect with the work of other contractors (e.g., landscape architects, engineers). A contractor has been selected to lead engineering for the design of restoration and public access improvements. Results from the Recreational Study will inform design concepts by translating quantitative and qualitative feedback into design principles. The project team consists of an economist who is available to advise on the economic impact portions of the Recreational Study.

1.3 SITE DESCRIPTION

The project site (pictured in Figure 1) includes the boundary of Rocky Neck State Park; center point of project site is 41°18'27.42"N, 72°14'36.80"W.

Figure 1. Rocky Neck State Park (RNSP) is located on the southeastern shore of Connecticut (star, inset map). The park supports many ecosystems such as a tidal creek, salt marsh, sandy beach, and forest.

1.4 SERVICES REQUESTED

A. Task 1 – Project Management and Coordination

The Vendor shall lead the Recreational Study and keep the tasks on-schedule and on-budget. Tasks include Project Team communication, coordination and documentation of Recreational Study goals, deadline coordination, dissemination of documents for client, Project Team, and stakeholder review, progress monitoring, and coordination of deliverables.

Deliverables:

1. Meeting agendas, minutes, and key action summaries for all work task activities to be provided to TNC, CT DEEP, and other project partners.
2. Monthly reporting, with sufficient detail on task work and percent completion of each task, and invoicing to TNC, with breakdown of costs by work task.
3. Detailed project schedule, including deadlines for data collection efforts, progress monitoring, and deliverables.

B. Task 2 – Data Collection and Analysis

To better understand use patterns at RNSP, a Recreational Study shall be conducted to assess visitor demographics, frequency of visits, activities they engage in, and barriers to access. This effort shall include a natural resource assessment, comprehensive visitor research (via survey and interviews and/or focus groups), and an economic impact analysis using IMPLAN and adhering to NOAA’s methodology on economic impact studies. The effort will be accomplished by site visits and through in-person, online, and/or hybrid means. Data collection and analysis will be informed by a review of similar social-recreational study efforts by NOAA and in Connecticut and the Long Island Sound Region (e.g., Marine Angler Survey, Long Island Sound Study Environmental Justice Needs Assessment, Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan). The Vendor will ensure compliance with NOAA data archiving and storage, Quality Assurance Plans, and other regulatory requirements and existing project agreements as necessary.

B.1. 2.1 - Data Collection

The Vendor shall be responsible for developing and implementing a data collection plan to capture relevant natural resource, recreational, social, and economic data. The data collection plan shall include a description of data to be collected, a schedule for data collection, and necessary approvals to conduct human subjects’ research. The Vendor shall review the plan with TNC prior to commencing data collection. Data shall be collected to support the following objectives: 1) Document natural resources in RNSP (e.g., ecosystems/habitat types, water resources, geological features, scenic resources, wildlife) and the suitability of these resources for recreational activities; 2) Demonstrate the expenditure patterns and economic impacts of Rocky Neck State Park to the local and regional economies (e.g., visitor spending, employment, current and potential future park revenue); 3) Assess and understand the demographics of park visitors; 4) Understand the satisfaction of visitors to RNSP currently and under future design scenarios; 5) Document needs and usage patterns of various users; 6) Document real and perceived barriers to visiting RNSP; 7) Document users’ desired enhancements at RNSP.

The Vendor shall ensure that the results of data collection maximize precision and participation amongst a variety of users across seasons. The Vendor shall collect user data through a variety of means, including but not limited to, surveys, interviews, focus groups, and site visits. Materials used for data collection shall be made available in English and other languages requested by the Project Team or identified by the Vendor. Additionally, the Vendor shall collect user data through in-person, online, and/or hybrid means to maximize the potential for user participation. Additional incentives for user participation may be considered. If incentives are provided to respondents, the Vendor shall be responsible for maintaining a system to ensure accurate and timely distribution of incentive payments.

Deliverables:

1. Data collection plan
2. User surveys for in-person and digital surveys
3. User interviews and/or focus groups
4. Clean, unprocessed raw data in a standardized, accessible format, ensuring its availability for public use and distribution in addition to files related to metadata and methods of analyses (e.g., R scripts, NVivo, .do files).

B.2. 2.2 - Data Analysis

The Vendor shall analyze the findings of the data collection plan to develop preliminary recommendations and understand methodological limitations of the various forms of data collection. In order for the Recreational Study to be comparable to other NOAA efforts, the economic impact analysis will be conducted via IMPLAN.

Deliverables:

1. Draft report which documents processed data from Task 2.1 – Data Collection and identifies methodology for data collection, along with a discussion of methodological limitations.

C. Task 3 - Recreational Study Report

The Vendor shall be responsible for producing a Recreational Study Report that documents the methods and results of data collection and analysis. The Recreational Study Report shall include a description of the methods, statistics, and other analyses in sufficient detail to be able to reproduce the study and conclusions/interpretations must be supported by the data. The analysis will include a natural resource assessment, comprehensive visitor research, and an economic impact analysis as outlined above. The Recreational Study Report shall include an extensive literature review encompassing similar social-recreational study efforts in Connecticut and the Long Island Sound Region (e.g., Marine Angler Survey, Long Island Sound Study Environmental Justice Needs Assessment, Statewide Comprehensive Outdoor Recreation Plan) and identify funding opportunities that could support recreational and access improvements.

Deliverables:

1. Recreational Study Report that documents the results of data collection, analysis, and literature review.
2. Analysis which includes visitor demographics, frequency of visits, activities they engage in, and barriers to access.
3. Analysis which includes economic impacts of current and future recreation use patterns

Therefore, to ensure an ethical evaluation process, all inquiries or other communications regarding this RFP shall be exclusively directed to the Customer’s authorized Agent, to the person and location specified in Article 1.7.1 of this RFP. Vendors are hereby expressly instructed not to otherwise communicate with Customer’s officers or employees regarding this RFP.
