A Historic Opportunity to Address the Climate Crisis

After months of negotiation, Congress now has the chance to pass the only comprehensive climate legislation at the federal level. By far, the time is now. It’s time to act.

If you’re in the Senate, a historic opportunity is at your doorstep. Your leadership is needed to pass the bipartisan infrastructure bill. Together, we can ensure a climate change plan is included.

Call on your elected representatives to support full and aggressive climate change action. Here’s how:

- Ask Senators to support the bipartisan infrastructure bill.
- Tell Congress we need to act and the time is now.

Full Contact Info for Issues on Climate

The Global Photo Contest is Back!

The Global Photo Contest is back! Join our virtual photography competition and share your stories. Submit your best photos to inspire others.

Submission Deadline: October 31

Learn more and enter now:

Restoration Through Tradition in Hawai’i

Join us as we explore the important role of traditional restoration practices in Hawai’i. Learn from experts and participate in hands-on activities.

Event Date: October 15

Shifting the Tide

Explore the latest trends in sustainability and environmental conservation. Join our panel of experts for a thought-provoking discussion.

Event Date: November 10

Gabon Is Leading the Way

Join us as we celebrate the progress Gabon is making in the fight against climate change. Learn about its innovative approaches and success stories.

Event Date: December 1

Before You Fire Up the Grill, an Environmental Scientist Wants You To Consider These 6 Eco-Friendly Tips

Before you fire up the grill, consider these eco-friendly tips to minimize your environmental impact.

1. Choose locally sourced ingredients.
2. Use a grill instead of multiple small grills.
3. Practice fire management and control.
4. Correct for fire safety.
5. Reduce heat and air pollution.
6. Always be mindful of the environment.

(continued)